

Ted joined Diastole as a financial planner after spending 25 years in sales and marketing positions in the life sciences and biotech industries. Ted got to know our team at Diastole originally as a client. He was impressed with the work we did, and realized that helping people achieve their financial goals would be an exciting and rewarding career path. Financial planning has been a life-long interest of his, and he has put into practice the principles of personal finance for himself throughout his adult life. Now, he will be helping others do the same.

Ted lives here in Guilford, CT with his wife Terry and children, John and Anna. John is a sophomore at Bucknell University and Anna is a junior at Guilford High School. Ted is a graduate of Middlebury College (BA English) and the Yale School of Management (MBA). Outside of work, Ted enjoys playing sports, camping and canoeing, and spending time at the ocean.
